

CONNECT

Create meaningful connections for success in the hybrid workplace

Technology cannot replace the human factor.

How prepared are your teams for the emerging hybrid workplace? While technology offers tools and infrastructure to “get things done”, many people lack a sense of belonging and struggle to truly connect with their colleagues without regular face-to-face time together. Collaboration suffers, processes lack efficiency and decision making can slow down – leading not only to wasted time and money, but also to increased frustration – all while people are dealing with screen fatigue, overwhelm or isolation.

What if there was a different way to CONNECT?

How much clarity, efficiency and focus would your team members experience if they could trust each other, knowing they have each other’s back? What would be the benefits if co-workers could build strong relationships, fostering autonomy and alignment, to promote high team performance regardless of their set-up? Imagine how much fun and fulfilment people could enjoy in the hybrid workplace, and how performance would rise, if they truly felt connected!

The CONNECT program is for you if:

- You want to prepare your workforce for transition to a hybrid workplace, or you already work with or in a distributed team;
- You want to enhance virtual collaboration skills, as well as ensuring proper self-care to deal with the effects of technology on the brain and body by addressing the associated mental and emotional challenges;
- You would like to develop your managers and improve remote leadership skills to boost engagement among their teams. Staff want their leaders to care for and nurture them. Technology is a way to “bridge the distance” but it’s how leaders leverage technology that truly connects them with their staff – and ultimately gives your business a competitive advantage.

GAIA Insights is a virtual company with an entire team that has worked remotely for almost a decade. More information: www.gaia-insights.com/connect
